Stakeout nails Telstar food filchers

By WENDY HANSCOM

Bethel Police broke up a food stealing ring Monday afternoon at Telstar High School.

At least 13 high school students may have been involved in a plot to swipe food from the Telstar cafeteria, according to Bethel Chief of Police Dale Bellman.

Since the end of the last school year, cafeteria staff had been reporting missing items in the kitchen -- sodas, cookies, potato chips and more.

The thefts continued when school opened this fall. School officials asked Bethel police last Friday to step up their investigation of the thefts, Bellman said.

Monday afternoon, a Bethel police officer hid in the school's kitchen. At 4:20 p.m., police ar-

Hunters warned: Dry leaves have raised fire danger

By WENDY HANSCOM

Newry and Bethel firefighters extinguished a 2.2 acre burn Sunday afternoon on Powder Ridge in Newry, and state fire officials are warning people that the woods are very dry.

"We're looking at Class 3, or a high degree of danger throughout the whole state," said Jim Downey of the Maine Forest Service. "It's typical for this time of year -- with no rain, and with all the leaves on the ground, we're left with a lot of dry, dead material. It's the same thing we run into in the spring."

If conditions stay dry, hunters and anyone burning leaves, brush or trash will need to be especially careful, Downey said.

"There's going to be a lot more people in the woods next month," he said. "Smokers need to make sure their cigarettes are thoroughly stomped out. People burning need to get a burn permit and follow the

Directors push administrators for answers/action on MEAs

By WENDY HANSCOM

Are SAD44 students getting the education they deserve?

Are some teachers so complacent that they're unable to motivate students to learn?

What, if anyone, is to blame for recent low MEA scores?

These are just some of the questions the SAD44 School Board wanted answered last week.

The board took about 90 minutes out of its regular agenda to talk about the quality of instruction in the district.

The discussion ranged from blaming parents for not being interested enough in their children's education, to a call to investigate turning over the administration of SAD44 to a private group.

Bethel director Merton Brown launched the debate by saying people had called him upset by "the lack of any administration or faculty ownership or responsibility for the eleventh-grade MEA scores."

Telstar High School principal Ted Davis replied, "We all take responsibility for those scores. I don't think I in any way meant to indicate we did not take responsibility. We're all very concerned about them. ... In my talking with some of the students about why they did not do better -- because I thought they had the ability to -- the comments were 'I could have cared less.' You can do all kinds of things to try and get these kids motivated but when the time comes for the student to do it and they don't want to, there's not a lot you can do."

Brown said he was afraid a SAD44 education wasn't worth the price district taxpayers were paying.

"The system is not working, and something has got to happen," Brown said, "and if we continue on

Rebels enter field hockey playoffs

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Telstar High School field hockey team begins state playoff action Friday, but the school's soccer team didn't make the post-season cut.

The field hockey team travels to Yarmouth Friday for a state Western Maine Class C quarterfinal game.

The girls finished the season with a 7-5 record and are seeded seventh. Yarmouth is seeded second. The Clippers went 11-3 for the regular season.

The last time the Rebels faced Yarmouth was in the 1992 playoffs. The Clippers won that semifinal game 1-0.

Coach Gail Wight said the offense and defense have both strengthened throughout the season and should be in top form for Friday's game.

"We're playing really well," said Rebel Coach Gail Wight. "We're getting off hard shots and we're getting better at zeroing in on the cage. I don't see them going wide of the cage like they did earlier in the season."

"The defense is working on backing up each other. Jessie (Wight) has been doing very well in the cage, but I'd prefer she wasn't in there alone. It's a big space to defend. We need another body backing her up and knocking the ball out."

"They seem to be getting themselves together. They just need to be consistent."

If the girls win Friday, they'll travel to either Sacopee or Traip on Wednesday, Oct. 26, for the semifinal game.

Boys' season is over

The Telstar soccer team didn't seed high enough to win a state playoff berth. The boys ended the season with a 6-5-1 record. The Rebels seeded eighth in Western Maine Class C. The top six teams were selected for state playoffs.

Rebel senior Tim Remington ended the season with a school record of 32 career goals. Wednesday, Remington also broke the school record for assists with No. 20 and 21. The old mark was held by Bruce Barth.

Bethel in the Sunday NY Times

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel was the subject of a feature article in the Oct. 2 edition of the Sunday New York Times -- and not in a travel or pre-season ski section.

The article, by Susan Diesenhouse, was in the Real Estate section and looked at length at the Bethel Station project and its potential effect on the town, especially on Bethel's "Victorian-era central village."

Diesenhouse sketched the history of the town and the piece of land where the project will be located. She wrote that, "Sunday River's need for more overnight accommodations was a major incentive for the project."

The developers have already invested $800,000 in Bethel Station and may offer shares to private investors, according to the article.

Commercial space in the development will rent for $12 a square foot excluding tax, maintenance and utilities -- or roughly three times the going rate of $3 to $5 a square foot for commercial space in the village.

Diesenhouse quoted Ed Kennett of Kennett Realty as saying that the price difference may prove difficult to justify initially, but that in the long run Bethel Station will attract more year-round businesses, "for which Bethel does not now have the space or proper infrastructure."

The Real Estate section is not included in the edition of the Sunday Times circulated in this area, but Town Clerk Merton Brown said that as a result of the article he has responded to telephone calls from as far away as California seeking more information on the town and the project.

Sunday River and its owner Les Otten are also the subjects of a highly favorable feature article, "Les is More," in the current (November) issue of SKIING Magazine.

That article, written by Nicholas Howe, terms Sunday River "the hottest ski area in America," and it characterizes Bethel as a town that "has not betrayed its heritage in a rush to cash in on the success of the nearby ski area."

Land trust launches local trails campaign

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Mahosuc Land Trust has launched an effort to develop more recreational trails in the Bethel area.

Executive director Marcel Polak told the organization's annual meeting Sunday that the MLT would function as a facilitator for the trail effort -- and not lose track of its fundamental mission of protecting locally significant natural resources including farmlands, forestlands and wildlands.

The first step in the trails initiative will be a meeting in November of representatives from the Bethel Conservation Commission, Friends of the Androscoggin, Bethel Station project, Sunday River Ski Resort, Newry Recreation Committee and municipalities. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss plans for acquiring the use of land for trails.

State Bureau of Parks and Recreation representative John Pichel spoke at the MLT annual meeting Sunday night, and he emphasized the importance of correctly designing trails to avoid problems with erosion.

He also reviewed a number of possible funding sources for trails development.

One MLT goal is to connect a

RIGHT ON, LISA AND WHOEVER

To the Editor:

I have seldom been moved to stand up and cheer when reading The Bethel Citizen. Last week's issue found me literally saying, "right on!" and waving my fists in the air to salute two females that were featured on pages 1 and 2.

I have sent my congratulations to Lisa Chase. She is an inspiration and very brave person to take on so many unknowns for such a worthy cause, her family.

I would like to use this forum to send my thanks and admiration to the Telstar senior who wrote the letter to the editor on page 2. What a powerfully written statement with sound reasoning behind it. The points that she makes should be debated openly and with rational voices. It is imperative that the finger-pointing stop so that healing and growth can begin.

'UNPRODUCTIVE' WILDERNESS PRODUCES MANY THINGS

To the Editor:

Leon Favreau (letters, Sept. 28) argues that taxpayers wouldn't be losing money selling timber on the White Mountain National Forest if it weren't for The Wilderness Society and our allies. At least he agrees with us that the program is a subsidy.

We do plead guilty to urging passage of sustained yield and forest management laws designed to protect our national forests, including their watershed, wildlife, and recreation assets. That means, for example, that roads must be built to minimize erosion and siltation of streams and that our public lands aren't part of the wholesale clearcutting that characterizes the industrial forest lands of Maine. That type of logging "on the cheap" might show a profit for the Forest Service. But it certainly wouldn't serve the multiple needs of our public lands and our obligations to future generations.

Our forestry laws have a valid public purpose and should be respected. At the Northern Forest Lands Council listening sessions last spring, improving forest practices was the public's greatest concern. The people of New England want forest practices improved, not diminished.

As for Mr. Favreau's diatribe against the nation's "unproductive" wilderness lands and The Wilderness Society, I'll just say that wilderness areas "produce" clean water, clean air, wildlife, fish, medicine, recreational opportunities, and natural laboratories for scientists. Those who share Mr. Favreau's eagerness to send logging trucks into every corner of the planet are a very limited minority.

CTY. GOP CHAIRMAN FOR COLLINS

To the Editor:

When I look at candidates for office, I try to find out what people who know them well think of them. I have listened carefully to several who really know Susan Collins and have worked with her. Since these are people I have known for a long time, I take seriously their observations and insights. In describing Susan, I have repeatedly heard phrases like "extremely bright with great judgment," "an excellent problem solver," "a superb administrator," "very compassionate, but also tough and fair." These are among the many qualities I am looking for in a candidate and she possesses them in abundance. She also has a detailed program to set new directions for Maine. Moreover, I have talked with her extensively and unlike some candidates she is what she appears to be, a thoroughly engaged, committed, dynamic leader ready to face Maine's future with vision and wisdom. For all of these reasons, I believe she is the best candidate for governor this year.

I hope your readers will give Susan every consideration. Let's make some history and elect her Maine's first woman governor. I can't think of anyone more qualified for this distinction.

THE REGIONAL PARTNERSHIP

To the Editor:

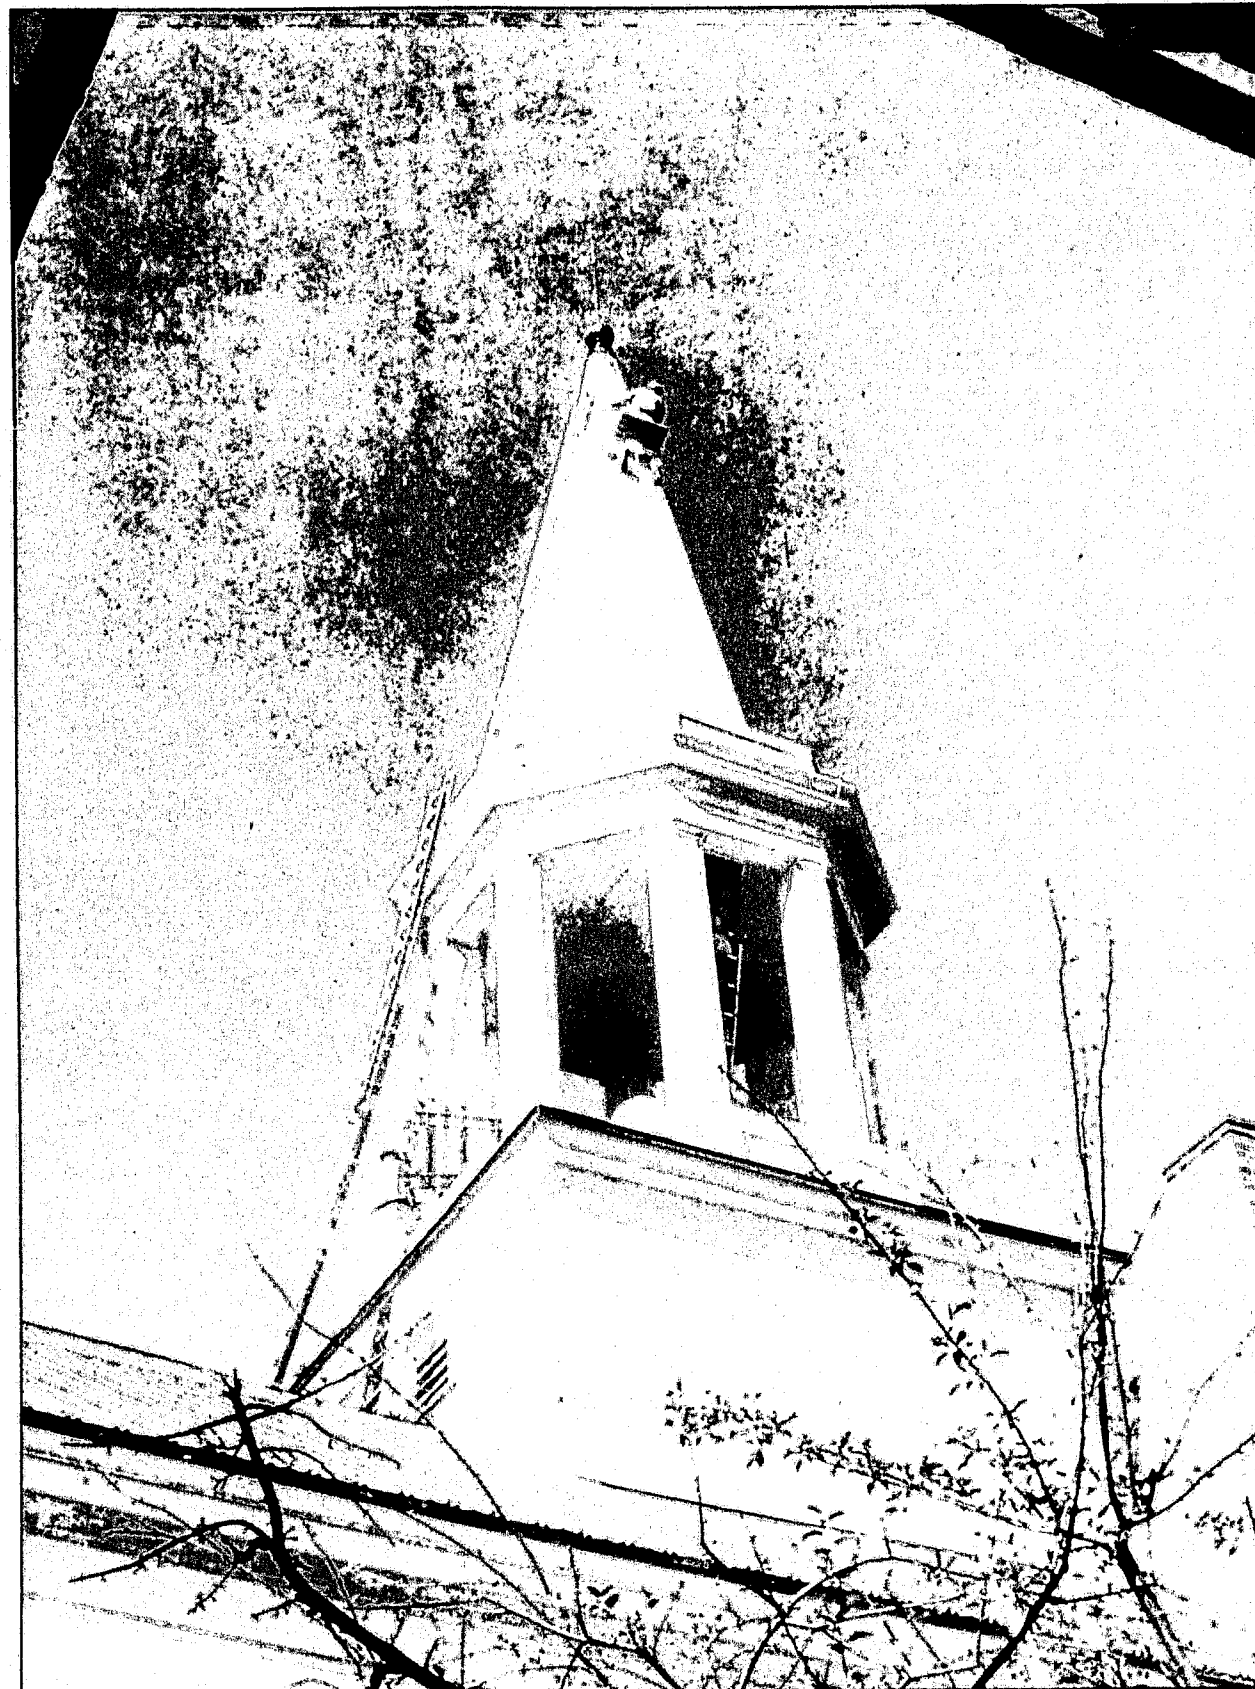

I am writing as prevention coordinator for the Regional Partnership, which is part of the Western Regional Council on Alcoholism. I am unsure as to how many people are aware of the various components of the Partnership. The Regional Partnership was formed in 1993, when a group of volunteers gathered and formed a coalition to help our youth, community, families, workplace and future in combating the challenges facing us concerning substance abuse issues. At this time, the Regional Partnership has several committees working on goals to assist the community in promoting healthier lifestyles for everyone. The following is a list of the committees of the Regional Partnership:

Currently meeting -- Community Chemical Awareness Team (CCAT), Project Graduation Committee, Safe Hangouts Committee. Hope to form and begin meeting -- School Support Committee, Speakers Committee, Law Support Committee, Parenting Help Committee.

We are really moving forward in our work, to establish resources available to the community. We welcome and invite new people to join us in our efforts. If you are interested in any of the committees or are interested in joining the Regional Partnership, please call 836-3620. Please leave a message if I am unable to come to the phone and I will get back to you as soon as possible. We need your help and ideas in order to make the Regional Partnership a success, and what better way to get involved in your community and promote healthy lifestyles for everyone.

The next Regional Partnership meeting will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 26, at Crescent Park School at 6:30 p.m. I hope to see you there.

FORMER DEMOCRATIC STATE SENATOR FOR ERWIN

To the Editor:

I am writing to support the candidacy of Phyllis Erwin for State Representative for District 70, which includes the towns of Rumford, Woodstock, and Milton Plantation. I had the pleasure of serving in the Maine House of Representatives with Phyllis for seven years. During my tenure, she was the chair of the Oxford County Delegation. Through her diligent efforts, Oxford County's budget was always the first budget passed by the legislative process.

Phyllis is a hard and diligent worker and has always represented the people of her district well. I hope that the voters in Legislative District #70 will return her once again to the Maine State Legislature.

Planners OK lower Main St. site for Bethel ambulance barn

But variance still needed on shoreland zoning

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Planning Board gave conditional approval last week for the town to locate its ambulance barn on a small, town-owned lot on lower Main Street.

At a meeting last month the Planning Board had balked at approving the site, arguing that it lacked room for sufficient parking and could be dangerous for personnel attempting to reach the barn quickly to respond to an emergency.

The planners sent the initial application back to the town selectmen with the recommendation that it be reconsidered.

Last week, however, town manager Madeleine Henley, selectmen chairman Arthur Gilbert and ambulance volunteer Mary Buckman presented the case for the lower Main Street site (none of the three had been able to be present when the proposal first went before the Planning Board).

Henley argued that locating six parking spaces on the site would meet town requirements, and room for those six spaces was available. Even more spaces could be had, she said, if the greenspace around the building were reduced.

Other parking is also available on an adjacent right-of-way, she said. The board questioned Henley about the details of the parking arrangements, then agreed that the parking requirement could be met.

The planners also questioned whether it was possible for responders to safely reach the site -- which is located on an intersection planner Reggie Brown characterized as "a constant bottleneck."

But Buckman said the access problem would be no worse there than it already is on Cross Street.

"We can deal with it," she said. The board accepted that assessment and voted to approve the plan. The vote to approve was unanimous.

Waiver, variance needed
Prior to approving the site plan, the board granted a waiver of the town setback requirements, allowing the ambulance barn to be located three feet from the St. Lawrence & Atlantic Railroad property line, and five feet from Main Street.

The Planning Board had established precedents for such a waiver in approving other buildings in the lower Main Street area.

The selectmen, however, still must go to the Appeals Board for a variance from the town's shoreland-zoning requirements.

The variance is needed because as planned the building and parking lot will cover more than 20 percent of the lot -- which is not allowed under shoreland zoning regulations.

At Monday's selectmen's meeting, Gilbert said the selectmen will request the variance on the basis of hardship, since the lot is nonconforming and not buildable.

The Appeals Board is scheduled to take up the waiver request at a meeting on Thursday, Oct. 27.

Police chief to mediate noise dispute

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel selectmen have agreed to have Police Chief Dale Bellman work with Harry Faulkner and Jan Baker to attempt to resolve a long-standing dispute over noise levels at the Backstage Restaurant, which Faulkner owns.

The dispute came to a head last month, when Baker, who lives near the restaurant, asked the board's help in resolving the situation.

Baker claimed the noise from the restaurant was excessively loud, especially on summer nights; but Faulkner denied the allegation, terming Baker's complaints "unreasonable and unfair."

The selectmen responded by instructing the Bethel police to take noise-level readings near the restaurant, at the Bakers' residence and at other locations around town.

Chief Bellman presented those readings at Monday night's selectmen's meeting, but the data did not resolve the matter.

The readings, taken over a period of ten days, did show noise levels outside the restaurant that were higher than the town's 45 decibel limit for entertainment venues, but the Backstage's readings were nearly identical to background readings from other locations in town.

With no obvious resolution of the matter in sight, Town Manager Madeleine Henley suggested that Chief Bellman, who has a good relationship with both Faulkner and Baker, work with them to try to determine a level of sound that would be acceptable to them both. Bellman and the selectmen readily agreed. "I would like to give that a shot," the chief said.

Sewer fee holds firm

For the third year in a row there will be no rate increase for Bethel Sewer District customers.

The selectmen approved a sewer budget of $297,923 for the coming year. Actual spending in the budget is down, Henley noted, but the budget total is up because of accounting changes.

The current usage fee, of $47.78 per 1,000 cubic feet, will remain in effect.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

This week the town of Norway is celebrating the 150th anniversary of the birth of Charles Asbury Stephens, the immortal C.A. Stephens, who wrote more than 1,000 stories, primarily for "The Youth's Companion," one of the most popular family magazines from the post-Civil War era to the 1920s. Stephens was also a medical doctor, who never practiced medicine but conducted medical experiments at his famous home, which once stood overlooking Norway Lake. Stephens Memorial Hospital is named for him.

Bethel readers may be surprised to learn that he once lived in Bethel. The 1850 census lists him as living with his parents in the Kimball Hill section of Bethel. At this time he was about five years old.

There are several references to Bethel in Stephens' writings, particularly those stories which deal with the lakes country to the north.

Over $7,200 has been realized from over 270 donors in the Bethel Historical Society's 1994 Annual Fund Campaign. Among the most recent donors are Barbara H. Honkala of Bethel in memory of William S. and Ruth C. Hastings; Marion Cole Stock of Ramona, Calif. in memory of Edmund Chase Cole; Michael S. Stowell of Lovettsville, Va. in honor of Joshua Paul Head; Jane Sullivan of Portland; Willard and Sylvia Wight of Newry; Jacqueline Wilkins of Longwood Fla. in memory of Grace Merrill and Lucia Wilson; Barbara Patterson of Bethel in memory of M. Wayne Patterson and Larry Patterson; Shirley Bartlett Eby of Stockton, Calif. in memory of James C. and Marguerite C. Bartlett; Edna York of Bethel in memory of Robert S. York. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity.

Briefly

Nice weather puts ski season on hold

NEWRY--Warmer than expected weather and a "clear-air temperature inversion" forced Sunday River Ski Resort to cancel plans to open last week. The resort announced early last Tuesday that it would open the following day, but later Tuesday (after The Citizen had gone to press) the opening plans were scrubbed. Temperatures were running about four degrees above what had been predicted, according to skiway spokesman Skip King, and an inversion made the air on the top of the mountain (where the first snowmaking takes place) even warmer than it was at the base. With the region predicted to continue basking in unseasonably warm weather, King said Monday that it is unlikely the resort would open before next week. But as any New Englander knows, things can change quickly. To learn the latest on prospects for opening day call 1-800-824-6400.

West Paris to start road work

WEST PARIS--In the next few weeks, the West Paris town crew will replace water mains on High and Greenwood streets and Penley Avenue. Parts of Penley Avenue will also be rebuilt and repaved.

Andover signs disappearing

ANDOVER--Selectman chair Kathy Williamson said last weeks she's frustrated with the rate in-town street signs have been disappearing, or being destroyed by vandals. "The signs at Pleasant and Maple streets, and Nevel Road are the ones I know of," Williamson said. "Also the parsonage sign, which has been there for years, has been taken. It really makes me upset. There is no need of that. If anyone has seen or heard anything please notify the town office. They were nice, permanent signs which should have lasted a long time."

BETHEL--The American Red Cross will sponsor a blood drive at Gould Academy on Tuesday, Nov. 8, from 12 to 5 p.m. at Bingham Gymnasium. AUGUSTA--State Senate District 24 candidate Norman Ferguson has been endorsed by the Sportsman's Alliance of Maine. Ferguson received written notice of the endorsement over the weekend from SAM executive director George A. Smith. Ferguson's campaign for the District 24 Senate seat earned the required grade of A. "I'm heartened by this meaningful show of support for my campaign," Ferguson said in a prepared statement.

Social Security benefits going up

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Social Security and Supplemental Security Income recipients will get a 2.8 percent increase in their benefits next year. That's an average $19 monthly increase. The increase is intended to help America's 45 million recipients keep up with inflation.

Animal groups sue over moose hunt

BURLINGTON, VT--Two animal rights groups here are suing the state governments to stop next year's, and all following seasons', moose hunts. The Vermont hunt was begun last year under the provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act. Moose hunting had been illegal for almost 100 years in the state. The groups did not seek to stop the 1994 moose hunt which began Monday.

SKI Ltd to buy Waterville Valley

MANCHESTER, N.H.--SKI Ltd. will buy Waterville Valley Ski Area for $11.4 million. The sale is effective Oct. 31. The ski area filed for bankruptcy protection last summer. SKI Ltd. also owns Killington, Mount Snow and Haystack ski areas in Vermont and is the controlling partner of Sugarloaf USA in Maine.

UFOs on Maine horizons

WALES--Mainers in the Fayette, Vienna, Wales and Raymond area have reported seeing UFOs in recent weeks. One 25-year-old homemaker of Wales said she and her fiance saw a light outside her home four to six weeks ago and again last week. The object appeared to be about 10 times as large as the North Star, the woman said. It hovered near Sabattus Mountain for three to four minutes, she said, which is about a mile from her home. "It was very, very bright, very brilliant. It was crystal clear, almost like a halogen," said Lisa Noyes, who said she didn't get a clear look at what was emitting the "diamond shaped" light. A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman in Portland said the agency had received no unusual reports. A Fayette man also reported seeing an unusual light on Sept. 11, and a Vienna resident called in a similar report on Sept. 14.

Do not resuscitate bracelets available

AUGUSTA--Maine's Emergency Medical Services have designed a program which allows terminally ill patients to wear a bracelet saying they do not want to be resuscitated. Those in need of an ambulance, but who do not want to have lifesaving measures begun if their heart or lungs stop working, may get a "comfort care/do not resuscitate" bracelet from Maine EMS. Most private physicians' offices have the necessary forms. More information is available at Maine EMS, 16 Edison Drive, Augusta, Maine, 04330.

Shed burns, but house saved

SUMNER--A Sumner firefighter spotted his neighbor's shed on fire Monday morning, ran for help and started battling the blaze. Firefighter Kim Wallace kicked in a basement door of the unoccupied house so he and another neighbor could turn on the water. The two men started beating the fire and throwing water on it. Several members of the Canton Fire Department, who were on their way to a nearby woods fire stopped to help. The 12-by-14-foot shed filled with hay was destroyed by the fire, as was a wood pile and a dog house. One side of the adjacent house was scorched.

From the Bethel Police log:

Thefts and burglaries

On Friday, Oct. 14, a Grover Hill couple reported their home had been broken into. Police found the cellar door kicked in and the power and phone lines cut. The house had been ransacked and several items stolen.

In other police news last week, on Sunday evening, Oct. 16, a Park Street resident reported that a juvenile was prowling around outside her home. Earlier the same day, the Big Apple on Railroad Street reported the theft of $5 in gas. Rumford police stopped the vehicle, the driver told police he had paid for the gas, but the store clerk claimed the man had not. The driver was asked to go to the station at some point and pay the bill.

On Friday, Oct. 14, the Oxford County Sheriff's Office told Bethel Police that the office had received several reports of a man brandishing a pistol grip shotgun at drivers on Route 26. No contact with the vehicle described was made.

On Thursday, Oct. 13, a Mechanic Street resident reported the theft of a $50 baby carriage from her property. Also the same day, a Rye, N.H. resident reported his wallet had been stolen from his Bethel Inn room, or he had lost it in the room. Later in the day police asked three juvenile to stop hanging around Bethel Pizza. Police also confiscated a juvenile's skateboard for 30 days, and a Telstar High School parent told police her daughter had been threatened by another Telstar student.

Trails

proposed river trail on the Bethel Station property with the existing mile-long Androscoggin River Recreational Trail, which is farther north along Route 2. The organization also has a broader goal of extending trails in general along the river.

MLT recently received word that its application for a $2,835 Countryside Initiative grant has been approved by the Appalachian Mountain Club. Polak said the money would be used to set up a program to contact landowners about possible use of property, including islands, on the river for recreational trails.

He stressed that any involvement of landowners is voluntary, and that MLT will provide information and possibly workshops on what the organization can offer regarding trail development.

MLT will also strive to preserve existing recreational trails in the area by encouraging careful use of them, Polak said. "We have trails now out of the good graces of the landowners," he said.

Polak said there are several benefits to creating recreational trails. "It gets people out into the area, provides a good means for exercise, and has economic value as a result of attracting people to the Bethel area as well."

WHITMAN LIBRARY

Whitman Memorial Library in Bryant Pond has had expanded hours since the addition of Elizabeth Lord to the staff at the beginning of September.

Beginning Oct. 20 the library will be open on Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Each Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:30 there will be a story hour for children from kindergarten to grade three.

NEWRY SKIS TO BE ISSUED FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Due to sudden illness last week of the ski fitter, skis were not issued to Newry students on Oct. 14 and 15.

The skis will be issued Friday and Saturday, Oct. 21 and 22. Skis can be picked up on Friday from 3 to 6 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Newry Town Office.

SAWDUST LOAD BURNS IN GILEAD--Firefighters from Gilead and Shelburne, N.H. take the tarp off a load of sawdust that caught fire Monday along Route 26. Wiring on the trailer apparently started the fire, according to Oxford County Sheriff's Office deputy April Crowley. Central Maine Power also responded to a report that electrical wires were down at the scene, but that wasn't the case, Crowley said.

the course that we're on, and if we continue to produce poor students, then I just don't think we're producing a product that's worth $6 point something million. Something's got to happen. I just don't know what that is."

Board chair Margaret Hand said she thought the district was generally doing an adequate job, but she wanted the administrators to further examine the low scores.

"Last year we were a five-star school," Hand said. "Nobody had anything to say about that. The only time I hear anything is when some one of our classes does badly. I think that's a shame. I think we need to take pride when we have a right to take pride and when there's problems we need to look at it. But I disagree with anyone who says we create a bad product. I think we're doing a good job with our kids. Are these MEA scores something to be proud of, no. Do I know why not, no. But I expect some answers from the administrators. Could it be this class. This has happened in the past. This has happened when the whole class didn't want to take it. We had a disaster several years ago because of that in the middle school."

Scores not ignored

Superintendent Ronald Jenkins said he didn't want the public to think that the administration was ignoring the test results.

"We can't be making excuses for bad scores and if that was perceived I'm sorry about that," Jenkins said. "However, if we're going to believe that we can't make excuses for bad scores, we ought to use the test the way the test is intended."

"The way we're looking at this test is exactly what the state tells us not to do, and that is not to look at a single testing and suppose we're going to hell in a handbasket, or that we've got the best school that ever came down the pike."

"They ask us to use three-year bands as the only reference for the school district, not single scores on a single grade level. I've said this enough times.

"I'm not making excuses for the terrible scores they got on the eleventh-grade testing. Our eleventh-graders did terrible on the testing, I thought that was obvious. The last fourth-grade test was not much better than this. You have now seen two testings in a row for which the test results were poor in many areas. Some test areas were good. There were high points. There were some kids who did well, scoring above the 95th percentile. We've had two testings that were terrible. There you are. They did terrible."

Less study halls, more instruction
Woodstock director T.L. Magee said he thought students might learn more if they spent more time in class.

"If I might be so bold to suggest that we teach our students," Magee said. "That we actually teach our students something. In the middle school, they have two study halls a day, a silent midday and two-and-a-half hours a week of silent reading. This is a tremendous amount of time we're not using for instruction."

If we're going to pay our teachers, we ought to be paying them for what they're supposed to be doing, instead of having study halls and midday socials and all the rest of this nonsense.

"I think we could expand a math class and teach them math, or extend an English class and teach them English. The reason the kids are not doing well is because they're not learning."

Jenkins said part of the problem was trying to meet the educational needs of all students.

"We are now attempting to educate everybody and not everybody comes to us ready to learn," Jenkins said. "There's A(attention) D(eficit) D(isorder), A(tention) D(eficit) H(yperactivity) D(isorder), or any number of other ills of society, and students in many cases come to us from broken homes and we are expected to fix it. And as we are trying to fix all those things, what we're probably losing is the education component. That said, in my opinion, one of the reasons private education is successful in the academics is quite simply that they don't have to deal with special-needs kids; they don't have to deal with the kid that has learning disorder. They simply don't accept them."

Andover director Sid Pew said he was worried the district was "dummying down" its instruction.

"I'm not sure we're dummying down education for all kids," Jenkins said. "What's incredibly difficult for us is to meet all the needs of all the kids given to us. We should be addressing the needs of all the kids, but resources being what they are, the best we can do is work with what we have. I don't know of any conscious effort of school districts intentionally dummying down their curriculum."

Exodus to the academics

At an earlier (Sept. 26) board meeting, administrators told the board part of the problem with low

MEA scores could be attributed to losing students to private schools, especially Gould Academy.

When asked to comment on why Telstar was losing students to Gould, Jenkins said, "I can give you a few examples -- music, art, drama. One of the things I hear about why kids go to Gould is because of the humanities offerings. The board is the one who cut these programs for whatever reasons, I think, and when the resources don't allow that to happen, people turn to private schools."

If Telstar wants to offer more humanities courses, Pew said, the board ought to be willing to ask taxpayers for more money.

"We have a pattern of passing the buck and laying the blame and no one taking the responsibility," he said. "The responsibility lies on all of us. It lies on the teachers. It lies on the administrators. It lies on the school board itself."

"We have to make some very hard decisions. If we want to have music, if we want to have art, if we want to have humanities I think that's great. But when it comes budget time we're all scared out of our pants the taxpayers will come down on us and cut the budget. I think the administrators should come to us and say this is what we want, this is what we need, this is the tax increase, so be it, and then as a board we have to have the guts to make that decision."

Poor motivation?

But Newry director Debbie Gilbert said money wasn't the problem. It was the district's inability to motivate students, and not expecting enough from them.

"I feel the administration is coping out to blame this on a lack of money and 'We can't expect them,'" Gilbert said. "The answer is to raise expectations and the spirit of our schools, and you'll see a turnaround."

Parents should also shoulder some of the responsibility for poor student performance, Hand said.

"It doesn't begin with the teachers," Hand said. "It begins with the expectations of our students and if we don't have the right expectations with our kids, we can't

You can't dummy down the standards because all parents in the district might not be meeting their obligations."

Gilbert asked the administrators to submit something in writing outlining how teachers and school officials plan to raise student expectations and standards.

The administrators present agreed to report back to the board.

Time to bring in outside help?

Bethel Director Jane Rolfe and Brown also asked the board to discuss hiring outside professionals to come into the district and evaluate how students are taught, and what they're learning.

"There's got to be some kind of tangible effort put forth," Brown said.

Brown also asked that the board discuss investigating whether or not a private company could run SAD44 more efficiently and with better results.

"I like the idea of privatization," Brown said. "I think it's an idea we should seriously look at."

Comments uncalled for

Brown also said that he had received a number of calls from constituents saying they were upset that Jenkins had said there might be a link between low MEA scores in SAD44 and the percentage of parents in the district who had attended college.

Jenkins said he was sorry if he had offended anyone, but claimed he had either been misquoted in the Bethel Citizen, or that his comment had been taken out of context.

'I can give you a few examples -- music, art, drama.'

expect the professionals to do it all. "Parents have to be held responsible too, and I don't think they are. Nobody here said tonight, 'Gee, the parents aren't sitting down and helping their kids read.' (They say) 'it's the teachers who aren't doing it.'"

"I think we overwhelm parents with what they think schools can do. I think there's enough blame to go around for everybody, but let's make sure we blame everybody that's in this loop, because we're not."

Gilbert, however, disagreed again. "I also think it's a cop-out to blame parents," she said. "If parents aren't doing their job, it's still our job to raise student expectations."

Economic study panel sets diversification priorities

By ALISON ALOISIO
and MICHAEL DANIELS

Members of the Evans Notch Economic Diversification and Development study panel came up last week with their priorities for needed services for existing and new businesses in the Bethel area, and will turn their attention next to finding a way to fund those services.

The Bethel Board of Selectmen, however, has expressed some skepticism regarding the panel's activities.

The economic development panel, made up of business and municipal representatives, has been examining whether a "one-stop shopping" resource center for businesses would aid in the economic development of the area. The center would provide information on such topics as loans, marketing and available labor.

The panel concluded at its last meeting that a resource center is needed and would require either an expansion of services of the present Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce or the formation of an entirely new organization with the chamber's support.

At last week's meeting, the top two services needed in each of four categories were identified.

Priority services needed to support business retention or expansion were:

- A business retention program providing an inventory of business needs.
- The direct provision of technical assistance, such as developing a marketing plan for a business.
- A single point of contact for all business inquiries.
- Area marketing for tourism or general economic development.

Services relating to existing and new public infrastructure were:

- Identification of need and planning for water, sewer, road, etc.

- Education of various groups about business climate.

Services relating to database information were:

- Community profile/area demographics.
- Directory of business services.

The panel determined that some of these services are already provided by existing organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce, banks, and towns, but that more overall coordination is needed.

A summary of the work so far will be presented to the Chamber of Commerce board at its next meeting, Oct. 20.

The group discussed possible sources of funding for a center and/or a person to serve as director. Brent Doney, executive director of the Oxford Hills Economic Growth Council, said his organization's funding came from a combination of public and private sources, including towns and bank.

Bethel selectmen cool to idea

At this week's meeting of the Bethel Board of Selectmen, Bob Chadbourne expressed concern that the economic development group might be creating "a new bureaucracy."

He also pointed out that no formal needs assessment has been conducted and that various groups or individuals were already addressing some of the needs identified by the development group.

"To me it looks like a bunch of issues other groups are handling," Chadbourne said.

The selectmen took no action regarding the matter and its proposals, but the board seemed in general agreement that there was little chance a Town Meeting could be convinced to fund such an initiative.

CPS open house Sunday

By WENDY HANSCOM

The newly expanded and renovated Crescent Park School will hold an open house and dedication ceremony on Sunday, Oct. 23 beginning at 2 p.m.

State Commissioner of Education Leo Martin will speak at the ceremony. Children's songwriter Rick Charrette will provide the entertainment. State Rep. Al Barth, SAD44 School Board Chairman Margaret Hand and CPS Principal David Murphy will also speak, with SAD44 superintendent Ronald Jenkins giving the introductions.

Greenwood School Board director Ray Harrington will rededicate the school's old sign, which was donated by the CPS class of 1959. The sign will be hung inside the building and surrounded by old class photos and pictures of other past school activities. School officials are looking for anyone who has any old photographs of school classes or events they'd like to donate or let the school copy for display, Murphy said.

Following the dedication ceremony, which should last 60 to 90 minutes, Murphy said, the school will be open for visitors to tour. CPS staff will be on hand to answer questions. Refreshments will also be served.

Food filchers

rested two juveniles, who were apprehended while breaking into the kitchen.

The juveniles were getting into the locked kitchen by removing ceiling tiles in an adjacent entry way and crawling across support beams into a ladies' bathroom.

From the bathroom they could enter the kitchen and have full access to the food coolers. Food was then passed through the cafeteria's delivery door to students waiting outside.

The two students arrested Monday afternoon were transported to the Bethel Police Department. Juvenile Intake was contacted and the students were later released to their parents.

Police suspect that at least 11 more students were involved in the thefts and will be questioned.

During the period students were breaking into the kitchen, some cooler and freezer doors were also left open, resulting in spoiled food, Bellman said. School officials are still working on a damage estimate. A freezer door was also extensively damaged.

School officials are planning to seek restitution from the students' parents, Bellman said, but the disposition of the case will ultimately be left up to Juvenile Intake.

Fire

safety suggestions on the permit. Ninety percent of the woods fires in Maine are caused by people. People just need to be a little extra cautious."

Sunday's fire in Newry got off to a quick start, according to Newry Fire Chief Virgil "Tink" Konkright.

Residents of the Bear River Valley in Newry reported seeing smoke in the area around noon Sunday, Konkright said.

Firefighters weren't sure exactly where the fire was located, the chief said, so Konkright and deputy chief Brad Wight went looking for it while other Newry firemen stood by at the town's stations.

When Konkright and Wight found the fire, off a Powder Ridge development road, about an acre of birch and hardwood leaves were burning, Konkright said.

"When Brad and I got there the fire was spreading across the ground faster than we could walk,"

Conkright said. "We started to put out the hot spot. We ran out of water and while we were waiting for another truck it burned around where we had put it out. It was going at a pretty good clip. It burned an acre in seven to eight minutes."

Newry called in Bethel for help. "It was going faster than we could keep up with it," the chief said, "so we called Bethel in to give us a hand."

In all about 18 men and five trucks fought the leaf fire. The two departments used about 3,900 gallons of water. Tank trucks refilled at the Powder Ridge fire pond.

The cause of the blaze is still under investigation.

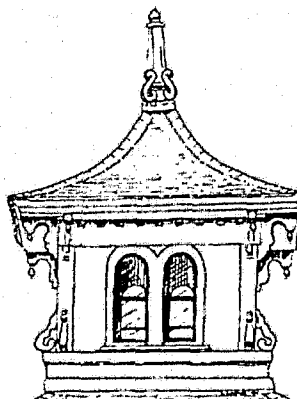

It's likely the exhaust from an off-road vehicle started the fire.

Six acres of woodland burned early Saturday morning in Eustis. In Sumner, Sunday firemen battled a blaze that covered about 10 acres of land.

Norman K. Ferguson, Jr. MAINE SENATE

We can build a bright future. A future that provides us, our children and our grandchildren with opportunity. We will have to work for it. And we will have to change the way things are done in Augusta.
We owe it to our children to assure them of the best education we can afford to provide them. Not just in grade school and high school. They should be able to get a good technical education at our Technical Colleges. Or at our University of Maine campuses.
We can be proud of what we have in western Maine - our natural beauty and our people.
Let's change what we must. Preserve what we cannot afford to lose. Stop partisan bickering and start bipartisan cooperation.

The Andover Service Circle celebrated their 20th anniversary as an organization Saturday at the C.E.B. In 1974 a group of ladies formed an organization whose goal is to contribute to the community and its people. Projects sponsored by the group include gifts to new mothers, holiday baskets and Christmas gifts, donations to local clubs and programs, assistance to those in crisis, scholarships for students and fundraising activities, all to assist and enrich the town. Three past club presidents in attendance were awarded corsages. Bertha Summerton of Milo, Sonja Flanders of Sangerville, and Beverly Swan of town. Reverend Waite lead the invocation. Musician Ross Swain entertained. A buffet was served. A floral centerpiece door prize was won by Beverly Swan. The club welcomes new members. The next meeting will be held at Peggy Madigan's home on Nov. 8. The group extends a big "thank you" to everyone who has supported and contributed to the Andover Service Circle during the last 20 years. Please contact Judy Michaud at 392-1221 for more information.

The Andover Elementary School will hold parent/teacher conferences on Nov. 14. Additional information will be sent home with the students within the next few weeks. Congratulations to fifth-grader Angie Kreiton, Student of the Week for Oct. 4-7. There will be a Halloween dance for students Grades 4-6 on Oct. 28. All are encouraged to wear a costume.

Lynn Thurston and friend Cruz

Gamez of Gorham were visitors of Dale and Karen McKay recently. Get well wishes to Pat Wyman who is recovering from a car accident on Route 5.

Nineteen area 1918 Club members and guests met at Teena's in Rumford on Oct. 5 for a luncheon. The gathering was planned by state president Violet Swain of East Andover. The other three officers: vice president Bill Smith, Andover; secretary Mary Philbrick, Kennebunkport; and treasurer Robert Webb, Westbrook were also present. Gifts were given to the members who came the longest distance.

Towns and cities represented were: Westbrook, Kennebunkport, Arundel, Bethel, West Peru, Rumford, Mexico, Andover, Auburn and East Andover.

The state meeting on Nov. 12 will be the holiday meeting luncheon at Vallee's in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swain had unexpected guests one day last week, her high school classmate, Dr. Leland Burrill and his wife Martha of Portola Valley, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Irish of Brunswick, formerly of Rumford.

Eleven members of the East Andover Community Club met with Betty Moore on Oct. 10. Vice president Evelyn Bell conducted the meeting in the absence of president Barbara Meisner, who was recovering from an auto accident. Several members had been remembered with plants and fruit plates. After the business meeting a social hour was held. Beatrice Schneider won the door prize. A food auction was held. The annual meeting will be Nov. 14, with Charlotte Sennett and Lila Farrington as co-hostess. Both members live in Rumford. Mrs. Farrington is the oldest charter member (she was 82 on Oct. 15).

Prior to the meeting a luncheon was served by Mrs. Moore and her sister Beatrice.

Brenda Plawlock got a 960-pound moose during the moose hunt in Northern Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nordahl and Martha Briscoe of Concord, Mass., joined the Friends of the Androscoggin for the canoe ride down the river on Oct. 8. They left from Davis Park in Bethel, and Jack had to leave at Hastings farm while Lucy and Martha went on down to the take-out in Rumford. Jack met them there with the car.

Three moose, a bull and two cows, were seen last week coming up the cart road by Clark Bartlett's.

Mr. and Mrs. William Day and Ellen Coffin of Norway called on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith visited Freda Edmunds in South Paris recently.

Denise Coolidge was home from U.M.O. Oct. 9-11.

Mrs. Earl Coolidge, Peggy Coolidge and Brenda Barnhill had dinner at Teena's in Rumford before Brenda left for home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kimball, Mary Smith of Northwest Bethel, Geneva Pelletier of Manchester, N.H., Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tuominen and children of North Norway, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Bernier and Jerry, Ruby Coolidge and Stan Walker, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kimball had dinner at Trap Corner Restaurant in West Paris on Oct. 8 to celebrate Chester's 92nd birthday.

Alice Grant of Cape Elizabeth and Marilyn Mollicone of Augusta visited Leslie Noyes and Nina Mollicone on Oct. 8-10.

Rudi and Barbara Honkala and Ann Morton of Hanover picked cranberries near Lovell on Oct. 9. They got a goodly amount of wild cranberries.

The Historical Society met on Saturday night for a meeting with the new officers presiding. Committees were named as follows: finance, Annela Burnham, Louisa Noyes, Annie T. Crockett, and Ruth Cox; research, Olive Risko, Ruby Emery, Alice Hoyt; building, Kenneth Hoyt, Raymond Burnham, Francis Brooks; program, Paul Billings, Kathleen Bean, Elena Noyes; refreshments, Annela Burnham, Guest speaker Stuart Martin spoke on the Community of Red Hill in Rumford. Two guests were present from South Paris. The Booster Club supper will be held Friday, Oct. 28.

The Historical Museum depicts the past and enriches the present and future. The society traces the development of the area and the activities of its inhabitants. It also fosters the ideals of America's heritage. Many historical societies are publishing interesting books, and this society benefits from the research, too.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens met last Thursday at the Madison Restaurant for a meeting and dinner. The next meeting will be at the Bryant Pond Grange Hall on Nov. 3, with the W.H.S. alumni putting on the dinner.

The annual parish meeting of the Bryant Pond Universalist Church will be at 10 a.m. following the Oct. 23 worship service.

Judith Grover Tent 17 DUV will join East Stoneham for inspection and supper on Oct. 26 at East Stoneham. Bring pies and candy to fill bags for veterans for Halloween.

Emma Billings received a visit from Phyllis Lowe on Wednesday. Emma, Lee, and Sue Silver did lawn work last week, and there was hardly a leaf on the ground. One week later, the grass was so covered that granddaughter Joelle filled a plastic pumpkin full of them. This was a fun task for her. Joelle visited with her cousin Austri this week as well.

Louise Chapman is preparing for the arrival of her daughters, Sarah and Allison, in late October.

Tim and Mary Gray, along with Kyle and Bryan, paid a visit to North Woodstock on Monday. Irene Mills called on our family that same day.

I went to Pizza Hut with my friends Laura and Angie over weekend. On Friday, I walked out to my friend Jenn's house and visited with her and Doreen Morin. We went to my grandparents' house while I was there.

Dawn Davis was home over the long weekend.

The weather was beautiful throughout the weekend. Just being outside fills me with peace and happiness. Every fall the leaves are here so quickly and then they disappear; but they are so pretty while they last. As the seasons change, so do our lives.

That's it from North Woodstock this week!

By LOUISE LORING

The frost gathers on the pumpkins, and the tall corn has withered and browned, the purple grapes hang in frosted globules among the tree-tops, where they climbed to reach the sun. The bittersweet shows her brilliant colors along the river bank, and the crimson cranberries are ripened in the bog. Cervantes said, "Time ripens all things, no man's born wise." When we meet again, friends, I will have turned one year older. Cervantes hit the nail on the head, in reference albeit to myself. When young I was more than foolish and by many costly dear lessons I, too, like the pumpkin in the proverbial cabbage patch grew wiser with age. The lessons learned are not to be forgotten, nor are they to be dwelt upon, but I thank God that along life's rugged pathway the lessons learned have made the rest of the path easier to pass through.

Autumn reaps its harvest/Man fulfills his destiny.

I was pleasantly surprised on the afternoon of Oct. 8 to receive a nice visit from two of my granddaughters, Kelsey Cross and Jessica Canlelo. Kelsey was home from her studies at St. Michaels College in Colchester, Vt., where she is a first-year student. She had a lot of nice things to talk about, as did Jessica about her second-year studies at Telstar. Jessica was a summer school student at Gould, where she experienced her first taste of campus life and met a lot of interesting students. I'm very proud of both girls and am indeed fortunate to have such nice grandchildren. I have four granddaughters and four grandsons, and I'm equally proud of all of them and their individual accomplishments. They are a great bunch of kids. (And this grandmother is quick as you can see to point out this fact to all who'll listen.)

Frank and Sid Murphy called on Oct 8 in the forenoon to report they had seen a beautiful bird (as big as an eagle) flying about their place with brilliant red and orange plumage. They wondered if it could be the missing cock-a-tool I contacted the owners, but have yet to learn from them if this in fact was the case. Yep, you're right, this column is for the birds and geese! Call in your news.

My husband is taking a part of his vacation from his employment at Gilbert's Mfg. Company in Locke Mills. Yesterday, we both kept his appointment in Norway. (Stay tuned - I'll let you know next week what else we did!)

Chris, Elena and little Benjamin Chapman of Ellsworth were guests of Chris' parents, Hugh and Linsley Chapman on Oct. 8 and 9. On that Saturday, the family was joined by their other son, Tim Chapman and friend Carole Cox as they attended Fryeburg Fair. After parking, they endured a crowded 20-minute walk to just get into the fair. But a great time was had by all.

Bob Noyes has asked me to thank all the people (on his behalf) who sent him cards and wished him well during his recent surgery and ongoing recovery period. Special thanks are being extended to Roger Corriveau and Gerard Dupont for all the help they have given him with his vehicle, which unfortunately took this time to go on the "blink." (Bob had to push his truck manually from Robinson Hill to the nearest garage.) One has to do what one has to do regardless of ill timing. Good Luck, Bob, on the rest of the way on the upward hill climb to complete recovery. We're all rooting for you, and are in your corner.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Corriveau Sr. are welcoming their sixth grandchild into the Corriveau family. Little Tabitha Ann was born on Oct. 5 and her proud parents are Fernand Jr. and Holly, who reside in Albany. Tabitha joins an older sister Melissa, who is six years of age.

And that's not all folks, Matti, the Corriveau dalmation, gave birth last week to nine cute little dalmatian pups. Any fire departments looking for mascots. Inquiries welcome.

Halloween is about to make its debut. To all my readers, a most "ghastly boooo!"

Anyone who would like to look for some answers to their questions about nature should take a walk along a path that leads back from the busy highway.

Choose a leaf; it doesn't matter if it's a maple, oak, or ash. Try to match it and you will find leaves are as varied as snowflakes.

Stroll with the leaf litter beneath the maples and you will find ever so many maple keys, which are nature's tiny helicopters. Each key's vane is like a wing that flips and sails to a place far from the parent tree trunk. At the base of the key you will see a flat, fat kernel, which is the seed. If conditions are favorable a seedling will sprout in the spring. Only a few survive for there are many hungry prowlers that search the woods.

I have seen the chipmunks searching and carrying, cheeks full, to their underground homes for the winter. These maples are typical of nature's generosity. It is that way with all nature's seeds whether it's berries, milkweed or maples.

In my woods and on my lawns the leaves have come down and left a glory of autumn, wine red and gold drifts. It's wonderful but a little sad to think about. Colors fade and vanish and return to the earth but there is a bright side. They are as priceless as a sunset, a bird-song, or a butterfly. another autumn will come but enjoy this one while it's here.

"My thoughts today are like leaves in the wind/Blown, dancing down from a tree/I am part of the autumn day/And it is part of me."

I had a special surprise one day this week. Several distant cousins came to meet me. They were from the Pease family. Charles Pease married my mother's sister, Lettie Swan. I had never met any of them. They were Mary Pease Bamford of Auburn, Ernestine Pease Gilbert of Leeds, Lettie Brooks came with them. She is my cousin. It was so nice to meet them. I wish we could have met sooner.

Mr. and Mrs. Artland Rogers of Norway came for a visit. He went to school here.

Zilpha had the misfortune to break her ankle last week. Her daughter, Louise di Arenzo is with her at the present time. We hope she gains every day.

I went to the supper at the Universalist Church at West Paris with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman on Friday evening. Milton showed slides which were very interesting.

John Betts was in Boston on Tuesday.

At the farm on Sunday we celebrated Sally Holt's birthday.

Evelyn Heikkinen of Mexico (Maine) and a friend visited me one day last week.

My niece, Theresa Toti from Rhode Island, and yours truly were at the Gould Academy Art Gallery recently to enjoy the original paintings by Melanie Farmer. She is the daughter of Arlene Bernier of Upton.

Services were held at the Newry Community Church Sunday, Oct. 9, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was "Pleasing God," from Proverbs 31:10-31.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle met Oct. 10 at Freda Robertson's residence. President Sylvia Wight opened the meeting with devotions read by secretary-treasurer Freda. "Lord Give Me Space," and a reading by Gil Seeley, "Heaven's Grocery Store." Amy Robertson, Freda's granddaughter, passed around leaflets called "Pass it on," and helped with the desert.

Freda brought the finances up to date and it was voted to send cards to Bernie and Warren Powers who are homebound. Plans were made to give Thanksgiving baskets and Christmas gifts to the pastor and Nancy. There will be no meetings of the Ladies Circle until May 1, 1995. The meeting was adjourned and a bingo game was played, led by Amy. Louise Tetley won. A reminder: the Congregational Church Fellowship luncheon will be Oct. 12 at noon.

The Newry Mothers' Club met Oct. 10 with only six members present. Sub-president Karlene Bachelder and Gil Seeley opened the meeting with a prayer. Secretary-treasurer Olive Anderson called the roll and reported on the finances and also on sending cards to Bernie and Warren Powers, who are homebound. The mystery prize was won by Sylvia Wight, but she didn't get it because last month's winner, Mary Morin, was absent. Gail Sysko and Kathy Trefethen of the recreation committee spoke of the involvement of the Mothers' Club with them to have a Christmas tree lighting ceremony at the Town Building on Dec. 4, with refreshments and entertainment. Thank-you cards were read by Karlene from Jen Bowie for the graduation gift, Eden Bartholomew and Gail, Jay and Andy Aloisio for their Storyland trip. Because of her 87th birthday on Oct. 24, Gil read a very funny composition on problems an old person has on "remembering." "Sometimes I don't remember." Next meeting will be Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments were served by Karlene. Olive and Gil will be on the next refreshment committee. P.S.—bingo game, bring prizes.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Teiley, Doris Parent, Sylvia Wight and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, doing some fun bowling one day last week. Karlene's mother, Julia Goodwin, and Jim Anderson were guests. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the singles with 103, beating Karlene's 101. But Karlene was high on the triples, beating Betsy by four pins. Of the "Righties," Doris was high on the triples, beating Louise by four pins, but she was also high on the singles. Betsy had five spares, Gil had one strike and one spare, Doris had one strike and one spare, and Olive had one spare.

Bill and Sylvia Wight are back from a trip to St. Louis, Mo. They told about an all-day trip around the city and enjoyed the great night lights glowing all over the city at night and of meeting people from all over the country.

The potluck dinner at the Grange Hall Saturday night was a lot of fun. It had a Halloween theme and a lot of flavor.

The kids did an outstanding job setting up a spook house in the basement. All ages were invited down for a guided tour, and many of the kids returned to be spooked again. Thanks very much to Shawna Roderick, Heather Roderick, Mary Berry, Erin Osgood, Chelsea Bartlett, Heather Lowell, Sarah Rackliffe, Sarah Marshall, Anna Sysko, Jenny Mae Wheeler, Darin Buker, Angie Buker and Toni V. for putting the spookhouse together.

There were two lucky winners who guessed the pumpkins weight and the number of candy corns in the jar. Jeff Davis' little girl won the pumpkin and Craig Zink won the candy corn.

Dinner was delicious, and there were even black cats and pumpkins for dessert. A good time was had by all. Thanks to the Recreation Committee for sponsoring this evening.

Callers at Florence Hall's on Thursday were Alice and William Helms, Belfast and Cam and Carl Harrigan, Mexico.

Gertrude Hutchins and Florence Hall went on the bus to Rumford on Wednesday.

Florence won the door prize at the Fireman's Open House on Saturday. Lillian Williams is home from visiting her family.

Gertrude Hutchins' granddaughter took her shopping on Saturday. Thought of the Day: My husband and I had a big argument over whether or not people are animals. He says we are, and I say we're not. Anyway, I won the argument, but he wouldn't admit it. He's so pig-headed!

I had a nice visit with George and Thelma Holden one day this week. George worked in the same office building I worked in for many years, and I never take time to visit. Thelma was busy knitting and getting things ready for the sale this weekend. She had many pretty and useful things all ready to go.

Sarah Hart, my granddaughter, spent Monday night and Tuesday with me, as there wasn't any school in Oxford Hills on Tuesday. In the afternoon I took her to Telstar High School, where she had attended until this year, her junior year of high school. She got to visit some of her teachers and friends for a while.

Richard Wing is having this week off for a vacation. He has been getting things ready for winter around the house and getting his plow ready to go. I hope we don't need it for a long time. Richard helped Rick Wing install some new windows at his home in West Paris on Sunday morning.

Jessie Hart spent Saturday night with us. She went to Fryeburg Fair on Sunday with Emily Phillips and some other friends. She said they had a lot of fun.

One birthday I missed -- I want to wish Laurie Cox a Happy Birthday. She used to live in South Woodstock and gets back often.

Dallas, son of Pam and Larry Poland is attending school at Woodstock Elementary in Bryant Pond now that they have moved to this area.

Ellsworth and Joyce Hathaway have been busy getting their mobile homes ready for the winter.

Buster Poland has received word from The National Library of Poetry in Owings Mills, Md., that his poem, "Two Jims," has been certified as a semi-finalist in the North American Open Poetry contest, and will be automatically entered into the final competition held in the winter of 1995. It is a very good poem and is one he wrote when he was on a troop ship in the Pacific during World War II.

Claribel Poland told me she was reminiscing the other day and this year makes the 50th year she has put children on the school bus. Her great-grandchildren Megan and Randi Mack get on the bus at Claribel's home each school day.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that at the October meeting of the society Stuart Martin spoke about a town near Rumford which is now gone. He has done much research on lost towns in the area. The committees of the society were also announced by the president. Several articles of business were considered at the meeting. Attendance was good. The historical museum tries to include a variety of interesting exhibits in its collection.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that no matter which line you get in, the other ones move faster."

Upton

By ARLINE BERNIER

The Ladies' Aid met Tuesday, with vice president Christine Morton presiding -- the president, Leslie Aron having resigned her position. The group discussed the Halloween party scheduled for Oct. 22. Prizes will be given to adults and children for costumes in three categories: scariest, prettiest and most original. A pumpkin carving contest will be held Oct. 16 under the supervision of Wanda Lavallee. It was decided to confine the celebration to Upton residents and guests.

Other business included plans for hunting season activities. A luncheon is scheduled for Nov. 12, 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., which will include soup, sandwiches and dessert at a cost of $3.50 and $1.50. A supper will be held on Nov. 19 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. The menu will be polluck and the price will be $5 for adults and $2 for youngsters.

Ray Bernier had a setback and returned to the hospital for a few more days. He is home now and on the road to recovery.

Mark S. Finks of Falmouth has sent literature declaring his intention as a write-in candidate for governor. He allegedly opposes some things most of the other candidates support, including abortion on demand, special homosexual rights, Northern Forest Lands Council and Outcome Based Education.

Upton has had one white frost this season followed by a warm trend.

Sunday through Wednesday our church, Praise Assembly of God, was privileged to have Rev. Don and Mrs. (Martha) Tension of Kentucky as guest speakers. In 1988 (some of you may remember from the news), the church they pastored took their annual fall outing to a fair in Illinois. On the return trip their bus was hit head-on by a drunk driver going north in the southbound lane. The bus was hit so hard it drove the frame back and punctured the gas tank and the sparks from the frame hitting the pavement set the bus on fire. All those sitting in front died. In all, the death count was 28 out of the 67 passengers. Rev. Tension usually went but was committed elsewhere that year. Their only son was one of those spared.

One man lost all the family he had in the world, a wife and two daughters. The church lost most of its staff, including the assistant pastor, but most of the fatalities were members of the youth group. However, the stories were not all doom and gloom, as they told remarkable stories of how people called on their faith and learned to be happy again. Certainly people learned to appreciate their families and their church family. By the way, the drunk driver got 16 years and will be eligible for parole after eight years. One hopes he will have learned not to drink and drive.

By the time you read this the month of October will be half over by a bit. It used to be my favorite month, but after losing my mother and a cousin during the month and now John is no longer here to celebrate our anniversary (it would have been our 40th this year on Oct. 9), somehow it doesn't seem quite like it used to. But I still enjoy the fall colors and the weather this year has been just gorgeous with warm days and cool nights and plenty of sun. I'm trying to store up some sun for our usually bleak, gray November. I really can't complain as I can't think of a place in the world that I would rather be than in Maine, even with winter coming on and the only thing I don't care for in winter is the traveling, which is rather odd seeing as I am apt to be a homebody; but I want to be able to go when I want even if it is only within a radius of 25 miles, which seems to be my comfort zone.

Val and Caroline Green spent the long weekend at their home here, mowed the lawn and generally buttoned up for winter. Actually they spend more time here during the winter, but one has to get ready.

The Roys are having some maintenance work done on their house. When you own a place there is always something but the advantages outweigh the disadvantages, at least in my book.

Howdy, folks. This is Monday morning, the 10th day of October already. Time is really sliding by, but what nice weather we have had for several days.

My old truck has been resting much of the summer, as the water pump decided to go wrong; so last Monday I called Frank Perham at Route 219 Garage about repairing it, and he said maybe by Thursday.

Monday evening, we attended Hobo and Scrambled Officers Night at Franklin Grange. Peggy drew the ticket to be master and my ticket said Pomona, so I sat with the lady officers. There were some interesting hobo outfits, and it was an evening of fun. We were blessed with quite a lot of visitors.

Last Tuesday morning, I finished up my news for the Citizen and then went to fixing squash to freeze. I ended up with an eight-quart kettle of cooked squash to be put into containers and into the freezer. Peggy worked on her home work for the card company and then left to take her car to Northeast Tire Company to have work done on it.

Tuesday evening, we attended Oxford Pomona Grange at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond. We had a real good supper and then went upstairs for the meeting. This was our meeting to work the Pomona degree, and we were fortunate to have seven candidates to take the degree. The officers all did a very good job and the degree work and other work went along quite smoothly. As master of Oxford Pomona, it pleases me when the degree work does go well.

Peggy and I went to Fryeburg Fair on Wednesday. We got an early start and got over there about 9 a.m. We parked on the grounds and spent the day there. We watched the horse and pony show to start with, and I really enjoyed that. It was a cold day, but we dressed ready to go to Antarctica before we left home, so we were quite comfortable as far as the cold was concerned.

Mary Lovejoy attended Franklin Grange Monday evening as a guest officer. She was in Bryant Pond on Friday and while there called on Tammy Farnum.

Jackie Stevens from North Paris called on Mary Lovejoy one day last week.

There will be dances at the Locke Mills Town Hall on Oct. 22 and again on Oct. 29, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. These dances start at 8 p.m. and last until midnight. If you like good dance music, this is it.

Don't forget the Flu Clinic to be held at West Paris Grange Hall on Oct. 25 from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Those with Medicare cards get their shot free of charge. Those that must pay will get their flu shot for $7.

Middle school group meets

Friends of Telstar Middle School met Wednesday, Oct. 12, for their regular monthly meeting. Principal Blackman welcomed the 17 people in attendance.

There will be an Activity Night Friday, Oct. 21, from 6:30-9. Plans include dancing in the cafeteria, indoor soccer in the gym, board games, a card room, and a chess tournament organized by Mrs. Bean.

The "Sandy-Andy Middle School Soccer Championship Tournament" will be hosted by T.M.S. at Telstar on Saturday, Oct. 29, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Friends of TMS will be running a concession stand to help support TMS. Volunteers to help that day are needed.

"Karaoke Night" is Saturday, Nov. 5, from 4-7 p.m. in Telstar cafeteria. Pete Robinson is donating his Karaoke equipment and his experience for this fun family event. Food and refreshments will be on sale. The proceeds will go to purchasing library books for the middle school.

The second edition of "In the Middle," the TMS newsletter, will be coming home Friday, Oct. 21. Be on the lookout for the next edition so you can stay informed.

Volunteer program: papers have been turned in and the response has been great.

Mr. Blackman gave a presentation on the MEAs. The eighth grade class will be taking their test beginning Monday, Oct. 24. The test format has changed, with "open response questions," no more multiple choice. A video was shown explaining the school changes occurring in the MEAs this year.

The next Friends of TMS meeting is Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 7 p.m. in the Telstar library.

w/sauce, golden corn, potato puffs, fruit.

Tuesday: American chop suey, garden green beans, tossed salad, bread and butter, fruit.

Wednesday: Early Release Day -- Hot dog in roll, savory wax beans, potato chips, fresh fruit.

Thursday: Oven baked chicken, whipped potatoes, garden green peas, cranberry sauce, dessert.

Friday: Pepperoni pizza, crisp veggie sticks, dill pickles, fruit.

USE OF NATIVE FLOWERS WINS AWARD—Joy Yarnell of Upton recently received the 1994 Kathryn S. Taylor Award for Private Gardens from the New England Wild Flower Society. Yarnell was cited for her outstanding use of native plants. Her garden was described by the awards committee chair as "remarkable for its complexity of textures and subtlety of design, and offers a distinguished example of the important role of native plants in horticulture, however sophisticated the format or however challenging the climate." The society will present the award at its annual meeting on Nov. 6 in Waltham, Mass.

BARTHS TO HOST SWOAM

The Western Maine Chapter of SWOAM, in conjunction with University of Maine Cooperative Extension will hold its monthly workshop on Saturday, Oct. 22, from 9 to 12 a.m. at Al and Lee Barth's 155-acre woodlot in Bethel. The Barths will guide visitors on a tour of the property to share their experiences.

Over the years the Barths have done intensive management, including a management plan, commercial harvesting, timber stand improvement work, tree planting, wildlife habitat improvement work, and constructed an extensive recreation trail network. They joined the Tree Farm System in 1992.

For more information or to get directions, call Merle Ring at 743-5976.

WES NATURE TRAIL GRANT

The Woodstock Elementary School has been awarded a $500 grant from the Maine Masonic Foundation to develop a nature trail on land around the school.

The grant was written by PTA members Cathie Sangiolo-Gaidis and Charlie Reiss.

Planning for the trail is already underway.

Bethel Outing Club ski sale

The Bethel Outing Club will hold its 13th annual Ski Sale on Friday, Oct. 18, and Saturday, Oct. 29, at Gould Academy's Field House. The doors open promptly at 6:30 p.m. and close at 9:30 p.m. on Friday and open again on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. There will be over 4,000 pieces of new and used alpine, cross-country, and snowboarding equipment as well as winter clothing and accessories.

Fifteen shops from Maine and New Hampshire will be represented, including Sporthaus, Rodger's Ski Outlet, Sports Outlet Ski Shop, Skiworks, Akers, Carter's Ski Shop, and Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center. Equipment and clothing are available for skiers of all types, abilities, sizes, and ages. This is an ideal opportunity to be outfitted for the coming season at bargain basement prices. There will be shop representatives available for anyone who needs help selecting proper equipment.

The Outing Club also accepts equipment and clothing items from individuals who want to try and sell their goods. Walk-ins will be accepted anytime Friday after 1 p.m. and Saturday. Equipment should be brought to Gould Academy Field House and look for "Walk-ins" signs. A commission is charged for all items sold.

The Bethel Outing Club is a nonprofit community service and the club's primary fund raiser. Proceeds are used to promote and support youth nordic ski programs and other community service projects in the Bethel and Western Maine region.

Soccer

Telstar 5, Lisbon 2

The Telstar High School soccer team ended the season Thursday with a 5-2 win over Lisbon. Keith Steven scored two goals and Sean Kangas had a goal and an assist. Tim Remington and Tony Buker also added goals for the Rebels. Todd Wing had four saves and Adam Newell one in the cage. Cory Koch added an assist to the Rebels' scoring.

Telstar 2, Jay 0

Ben Fogg scored Telstar's only goals Wednesday, Oct. 19, as the Rebels got a 2-0 win over Jay. Fogg broke a 0-0 tie five minutes into the second half when he took Tim Remington's pass from the left wing and beat the Jay goalkeeper to the near post from 10 yards out. Eleven minutes later, Remington laid an indirect kick off to Fogg who netted the pass from 15 yards out. Remington's two assists broke the school's assists record. Todd Wing and Adam Newell combined in the cage for four Telstar stops.

Gould 0, Waynelete 4

The Gould Academy girls' varsity soccer team lost 0-4 Wednesday, Oct. 12, to Waynelete. The girls play at Pine Tree Academy today (Wednesday).

JV: Gould 1, Hebron 2

Elin Jonsson scored Gould's only goal in Friday's 1-2 JV girls' loss to Hebron. The Huskies took 11 shots on goal and Gould's goalie had 13 saves. They meet North Yarmouth Academy next at home today (Wednesday) at 3:30 p.m.

Reserve: Gould 0, Brewster 2

The Gould Academy boys' JV reserve soccer team lost to Brewster 0-2 on Wednesday, Oct. 12. The boys play at Pine Tree Academy today (Wednesday).

Field hockey

Gould 1, NYA 3

Gould Academy's field hockey team lost 1-3 Monday to North Yarmouth Academy. Meredith Mason scored the Huskie's lone goal, with an assist from Laurie Young. "It was a very exciting game," said coach Dana Breslau. "Both teams played hard throughout. Kate Graham did fantastic in the goal with eight saves. NYA now has a 14-0 record and Gould 6-2. Both teams are number one in their leagues." The girls are scheduled to play Kents Hills at home Saturday at 1 p.m.

Telstar 0, Leavitt 3

The Telstar High School field hockey team lost 0-3 Friday to undefeated Leavitt. Jessie Wight stopped five shots in the cage. Despite finishing up the regular season with two losses, the girls qualified for the state Western Maine Class C playoffs, and travel to Yarmouth Friday for a quarterfinal game.

Telstar 1, Jay 2

Jay beat the Telstar field hockey team 1-2 Wednesday, Oct. 12 in overtime. Rebel Jamie Orrok scored an unassisted goal on a rebound off the Jay goalie just 1:42 into the game. But the Tiger defense came back in the second half, tying the game. Jay scored again with 3:03 remaining in overtime to lock up the Mountain Valley conference win.

Gould 4, Waynelete 2

Marie Lowell racked up three goals Wednesday, Oct. 12 in Gould Academy's 4-2 field hockey win over Waynelete. The girls are now first in their division. Meredith Mason added the other Huskie goal.

TMS 3, Jay 2

Maryanne Lowe scored the winning goal for Telstar Middle School Friday, Oct. 14, as the Rebels beat Jay 3-2.

Lowe had knocked in a goal earlier in the game and Vickie Coolidge also pushed one in. Jenny Wheeler and Lydia Mills took up duty in the cage.

The girls meet Tripp at home Thursday in a semi-final Sandy/Andy League playoff game. If the girls win, they'll advance to the final, which will be played either Monday or Tuesday.

TMS 1, Mt. Valley 2

The Telstar Middle School field hockey team lost its first game of the season Thursday, Oct. 13, 1-2 to Mt. Valley. Billie Jo Sweetser scored Telstar's only goal of the game.

JV: TMS 0, Jay 1

The Telstar Middle School JV field hockey team lost its first game of the season 0-1 to Jay on Friday, Oct. 14. The Rebels played hard, according to coach Sally Hannon, but undefeated Jay prevailed.

JV: TMS 0, Mt. Valley 0

The Telstar Middle School JV team battled to a scoreless time Thursday, Oct. 13, against Mt. Valley. Coach Sally Hannon said the girls played well and Lydia Mills was strong in the cage, but the Rebels couldn't convert for a goal.

Mr. & Mrs. Robert Moore III

Mary Beth Feeney and Robert M. Moore III were married on Aug. 27, 1994. The informal garden ceremony was held at 2 p.m. at the home of Nancy Willard, aunt of the bride, on Lake Christopher in Bryant Pond.

Parents of the bride are Donald and Ruth Feeney of Bethel. The groom's parents are Robert M. and Jean Moore of Lansdowne, Pa. The bride and matron of honor, Laurie Vogt Barter, friend of the bride, were escorted by boat to the wedding site by the bride's brother, John Paul Feeney. Best man was George Fong, friend of the groom.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nathan Seckinger. Sawyer Barter served as ring bearer. Flowers were arranged by Jane Vogt. A reception for families and friends followed the ceremony. Thomas Bennett, cousin of the bride provided music.

The bride is a 1983 graduate of Telstar Regional High School and received her B.A. from Bryn Mawr College in 1987. She is presently employed at the Lore Degenstein Gallery of Susquehanna University.

The groom, a graduate of Friend's Central near Philadelphia, received his undergraduate degree at University of Michigan and is a doctoral candidate at Temple University in Philadelphia. Currently he is assistant professor of sociology at Susquehanna University.

The couple recently traveled to Copenhagen and are residing at 203 South Market Street, Selinsgrove, Pa.

Mr. & Mrs. Colin S. Campbell

Bethany R. Hall and Colin S. Campbell were united in marriage at the North Paris Community Church on June 11, 1994 by their friend, Kerrie Castonguay.

The bride is the daughter of Bonnie Ellingwood of South Paris and Keith Hall of Tennessee. The groom is the son of Elizabeth Campbell of Yarmouth and Colin Campbell of Florida.

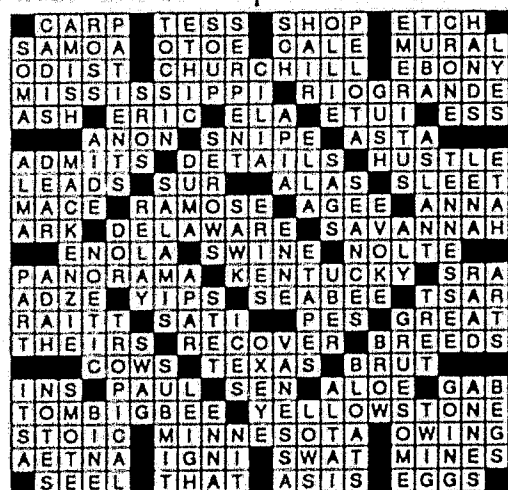

Bethany was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a floor length gown with train of satin and lace, trimmed with pearl beads. The bouquets and other flowers of silk were created by the groom's mother. The matron of honor was Tina Straiton, sister of the bride, who wore an afternoon dress of spring flower colors. The best man was Brian Campbell, brother of the groom.

A barbecue reception was held at the North Paris Community Hall following the ceremony.

Under a shower of bird seed, the couple left for a trip through the White Mountains.

The bride graduated from Thornton Academy and the groom from Yarmouth. He continues his career as a law enforcement officer in Maine, where the couple make their home.

USDA FOREST SERVICE Evans Notch Ranger District White Mountain National Forest Town of Gilead, Townships of Mason & Batchelders Grant Oxford County, Maine

The White Mountain National Forest is proposing to harvest timber in the vicinity of Bog Brook on the Evans Notch Ranger District. The Bog Brook sale area is about 4 miles southwest of the junction of the Bog Road (FR 6) and US hwy 2. Up to 293 acres would be treated. Most harvest units would be treated using uneven-aged methods such as single tree and small group cutting, and some harvest units could be treated using even-aged method of clearcutting. Approximately 1.3 miles of road would be reconstructed from the Bog Road, and a temporary bridge with permanent abutments would be constructed to access the area. In accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA), the district has prepared an Environmental Assessment for this project. We are accepting comments on this proposal until November 16. To obtain more information on the Environmental Assessment or project, contact Wayne Millen at the Evans Notch Ranger District, 18 Mayville Road, Bethel Maine 04217 or call (207) 824-2134, Fax # 207-824-3312, TTY 207-824-3312.

Card of Thanks

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent a floral piece,
If so we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
As any friend could say.
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much whatever the part.
A SPECIAL THANKS TO

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my deep appreciation and thanks to all who sent me cards and letters, said prayers, came to visit, and brought me gifts, flowers and food, while I have been convalescing at home from injuries sustained from an auto accident.
It is wonderful to have such kind and thoughtful friends. God bless all of you.

Barbara Meisner

Card of Thanks

The family of Hulda Stevens wishes to express their sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors.

A simple thank you seems inadequate to express the comfort that all the phone calls, cards, notes, visits and flowers you gave us during our tragic loss; but thank you all.
A thank you to those who cooked for us and took over the preparations for the gathering at the Stevens homeplace.

It gave us great comfort to have so many friends at the Memorial Service - and farm. We loved her with all our hearts and are glad she touched so many lives with her kind and gentle way.
